

Project: Utah Transit Authority -- Weber County to Salt Lake Commuter Rail

Recipient: Utah Transit Authority

Location: Salt Lake City, Utah

Purpose: The requested funds would be used to reimburse Utah Transit Authority for a portion of the federal share of funds spent on construction of a 44-mile commuter rail line. This project is a 44-mile long commuter rail line running from downtown Salt Lake City to Weber County via the cities of Woods Cross, Farmington, Layton, Clearfield, Roy, Ogden and Pleasant View. It transports commuters to regional job centers and provides critical congestion and air-quality relief in a geographically constricted corridor. The project is expected to significantly improve travel time in the corridor, and will help meet regional air quality goals. This reimbursement will enable UTA to advance projects in the next tier of development. Design and construction activities related to advancing the development of the next tier of projects will significantly contribute to economic recovery.
